ACCREDITATION STATEMENT

The National Medical Association is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

The National Medical Association designates this live in-person activity for a maximum of 6.5 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

TARGET AUDIENCE:

Physicians
Health Policy Makers
Healthcare Workers

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

- Explain the impact of nutrition on chronic disease
- Discuss the current and proposed legislative policy around food access
- Explore ways to use nutrition to fight obesity
- Assess how the 340B program has resulted in disparities in how certain populations access care
- Examine principles designed to ensure the 340B program is put on a sustainable path for the future and benefits patients and true safety-net providers
- Identify ways redetermination of Medicaid creates a health access issue and broadens healthcare disparity gaps
- Review the work on physician viability and the impact of racism on black physicians
- Identify ways to increase the black physician workforce
- Examine the impact of Maternal Health/Black Women's Health Agenda
- Analyze current maternal mortality statistics and where the United States ranks globally
- Identify opportunities for the United States to eliminate disparities and decrease the maternal mortality rate

In accordance with the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education's Standards for Integrity and Independence, all persons who control the educational content of NMA accredited activities must disclose all financial relationships with any ineligible companies that they have had over the past 24 months. NMA uses the ACCME's definition of ineligible companies: Those whose primary business is producing, marketing, selling, re-selling, or distributing healthcare products used by or on patients. There is no minimum financial threshold. NMA determines whether any of those relationships is relevant to this activity. All of the relevant financial relationships identified for persons in a position to control activity content have been mitigated.
